INTRODUCTION

Braemar is located within the pretty Galloway village of Kirkgunzeon occupying an elevated site benefitting from views across the village rooftops and surrounding countryside. This charming, detached cottage is mainly of traditional granite construction and is enclosed by its own mature garden grounds. The property offers spacious three-bedroom accommodation over two floors.

Braemar benefits from private off-road parking via a gated driveway. The garden to the rear is fully enclosed backing on to farmland and are mainly made up of lawns, mature trees and mature shrubs.

The Parish of Kirkgunzeon has existed from the thirteenth century, primarily an agricultural area with evidence of farming dating back to the Bronze Age settlements. In the 19th century the village was described as self-sufficient with a mill, school, shop, smithy and railway station. Many of these village facilities have now closed although both Maxwell Memorial Hall and the Primary School remain open. The memorial hall offers an annual programme of events and activities and can be hired for private functions and recreational activities such as the regular yoga classes. The Hall is also used by Kirkgunzeon primary school and their school 'cluster' partners of Palnackie and Colvend.

Dalbeattie, some four miles distant, provides a wider range of essential services with a newly constructed school which caters for nursery to secondary education. The town also boasts a wide range of retail and professional services, along with a new medical practice and leisure facilities. A wider range of shops, supermarkets and services can be found in the nearby town of Castle Douglas, with the regional centre of Dumfries offering the West of Scotland University Campus, a major new Hospital, a range of high street shops, retail parks and large supermarkets.

This area of Southwest Scotland is a varied and picturesque part of Southern Scotland, ranging from the moorland of the Southern Upland hills to the bays and sandy beaches of the Solway Coast. It is an historic and distinctly rural county where agriculture and tourism form the backbone of the local economy.

Given the diverse landscape and proximity to the Solway Coast the area offers unique walks, equestrian hacking, cycling, sailing and for the keen golfer, Dumfries & Galloway boasts no fewer than twenty-nine 18-hole courses, the closest being at Gatehouse of Fleet. Equestrian activities are a feature of the county, with two active branches of the Pony Club of Great Britain.

Communications and arterial links are very good with the A75 in close proximity and the M6 and M74 at Lockerbie. The international airports of Glasgow and Prestwick are within easy commuting distance.
